

Denis Bonnet is Vice President, Chief Technical Officer for Thales avionics activities.

His mission is to lead Thales avionics technical community and to leverage on Thales' ability to develop technologies to help Thales customers to solve their most challenging issues. Before that, he was heading Thales aerospace R&T activities and held various positions in Thales cockpit domain, ranging from software engineering to human factor and safety. He joined Thales in 1997. He has graduated from Telecom Paris engineering school in 1994. He also holds a PhD in machine learning.